Making Modern Tech Part of Company Culture

Company Vision: Secured.

Challenge

Robert Dietrick Company is a manufacturer's representative who solves problems for customers at the loading dock and in the warehouse or production facility. RDC helps facilities work faster, smarter, and safer with less downtime. Their customers benefit from planned maintenance, service, and repair from certified service technicians who have undergone extensive training for industrial loading dock equipment and specialty doors.

However, these solutions are only possible with an efficient and stable technology infrastructure. RDC realized they needed more streamlined mobile technology to support their growing number of customer-facing employees. This included switching to different automated processes, developing a better mobile device management system, and improving their cybersecurity posture.

Solution

The Braden team came into the picture to help the business leverage the most modern and effective technology – without the complexities. After completing a full analysis of the company’s operations, Braden started providing technical support. Over the next few years, Braden built a more optimized infrastructure, implementing new cybersecurity solutions, and providing a flexible, productive hybrid work environment.
